Objective

The pharmaceutical sciences combine a broad range of scientific disciplines that are critical to the discovery and development of new drugs and therapies. Drug discovery is the process through which potential new therapeutic entities are identified, using a combination of computational, experimental, translational, and clinical models. Despite advances in biotechnology and understanding of biological systems, drug discovery is still a lengthy, costly, difficult, and inefficient process with a high attrition rate of new therapeutic discovery. Drug design is the inventive process of finding new medications based on the knowledge of a biological target. In the most basic sense, drug design involves the design of molecules that are complementary in shape and charge to the molecular target with which they interact and bind. Drug design frequently but not necessarily relies on computer modeling techniques and bioinformatics approaches in the big data era. Drug development and discovery includes preclinical research on cell-based and animal models and clinical trials on humans, and finally move forward to the step of obtaining regulatory approval in order to market the drug. Pharmaceutics and Pharmaceutical technology are concerned with the design and formulation of drugs into different dosage forms. They are also concerned with the development of new drug delivery systems that ensure drug efficacy with minimal side effects. In the present conference, pharmaceutical experts from diverse international/national organizations will address the diverse aspects related to pharmacy, including drug design, pharmacology and pharmaceutical technology.
